I just talked with the team and it sounds like they really tried to make this work, creativity and all, but that it was much more than a 1/2 hour fix. Thanks for the effort.

Your right. A fire drill was not intended. I was considering canceling the meeting without checking with you all, but Hans suggested that the work required on this end might only be 1/2 hour, which might have meant we could still move ahead (I don't know everyone's schedules), and avoid a 1 month delay in the TES study. I've been out of the loop until now, but Valerie and Hans know that without a resolution from you guys on this contract, this meeting would be cancelled, so I assume that is what happened.

Pls see the attached e-mail below.

I think our team is working on this, but the Law Dep't is in a meeting until 3 today, so Amy does not have the flexibility to drop everything to get this done. Rick, I suggest the meeting be postponed.

On Feb 21 when we met, my thinking in proposing that the Mar 7 meeting not occur unless a contract had been signed was not to create yet another fire drill, but to give the parties an incentive to complete the contract on a reasonable time table.
